With Ski Training 21st- 26th

Welcome to another ski racing season and Speedy's Annual Copper Mountain Thanksgiving Ski Camp! Following a series of successful Speedys Summer Camps at Mt Hood, Mark Archer aka Speedy along with Squaw Valley coach Tamara MckKnney (First American woman to win the Overall World Cup Title), Jiminy Peak coach John Borwick, Special Guest coach USST Womens Team member Foreste Peterson, and his highly experienced USSA certified coaching staff are kicking off a Thanksgiving camp project to ensure that your season starts fast...and gets even faster!

Why Speedy's Camp?

Through his many years of coaching, Speedy understands the importance of early season ski camps to develop younger racers technique and how to prepare them for the upcoming season. Speedy's training methods provides a planned progression through an intense high level proven SL/GS technical training program. Done by using varied terrain in association with strong gate and drill course sets. The profound success of these training programs are realized with well-balanced coach directed free skiing progressions, all while utilizing our private training lanes for optimal slalom and giant slalom gate training for our athletes.

Why Copper?

Historically, Copper Mountain offers one of the best snow making systems with state of the art grooming giving us early season High Altitude training not found anywhere else in North America. We have secured private training lanes ensuring the best for both free skiing and gate training.

Training Focus:

Speedy's camp offers a fantastic opportunity to jump start your individual ski racing skills by providing small group/small coach-to-athlete ratios and utilizing multiple directed training runs. The proven progression offers an intense approach to fundamental skills, focusing on technique, tactics and individual achievement. Speedy's camp offers two training sessions per day, utilizing Copper's huge free skiing terrain area along with our private training lanes. The focus builds a fundamentals base, which leads into modern slalom and giant slalom technique and tactics. Speedy's team will utilize directed training methods in addition to HD video, gate sets for particular training instruction and wireless timing systems. Athletes will be afforded to off hill classroom discussions to promote and teach ski tuning, nutrition, mental conditioning and team building. Each athlete will receive a personal DVD in addition to a written evaluation. This preseason foundation will help increase your ski racing skills, help build confidence in your skiing and ensure a head start on your competition.
